

WHY CHOOSE OUR Alaska Long-Hair GOAT HUNTS?

1. You'll Get the Longest Hair

We hunt in November, the winter season, when the goat hair is at its very longest – longer than any other goat area in the world. This is due to the raw, cold, damp coastal air and climate, unlike drier winter air in interior areas.

2. Easiest Access

Goat hunts are all done during the prime rut, when they are most accessible at very low elevations. This means there is no climbing involved – most goats are taken from the shoreline. Average shot distance is typically 300-400 yards.

3. Unsurpassed

With experience in the same hunting areas since 1991 – making unsurpassed knowledge of the area and goats, leading to virtually 100% harvest rates with trophy billies.
